CALIBRATION PROMS AND FLASH PROM PROGRAMMING

ALL DIGITAL ENGINE CONTROL COMPUTERS REQUIRE A SET OF INSTRUCTIONS TO PERFORM WITHIN EMISSIONS SPECIFICATIONS AND TO OPERATE COMPUTER CONTROLLED COMPONENTS AS THE MANUFACTURER INTENDED. SOME ECM'S HAVE THIS INFORMATION PERMANENTLY INSTALLED ON THE CIRCUIT BOARD WHILE OTHER UNITS HAVE REMOVEABLE CHIPS CONTAINING THE PROGRAMMING FOR A SPECIFIC APPLICATION. ECM'S OF THE 1990'S HAVE A SPECIAL CHIP INSIDE THAT CAN STORE PROGRAMMING INFORMATION THAT IS INSTALLED VIA THE DIAGNOSTIC CONNECTOR ON THE VEHICLE.

ECMS WITH REMOVABLE CHIPS OR ELECTRONICALLY INSTALLED PROGRAMMING SHOULD NEVER BE OPERATED WITHOUT THE CORRECT CHIP OR PROGRAMMING INSTALLED!

FORD PRODUCTS

1978-1983 EECI, EECII AND EECIII COMPUTERS HAVE A REMOVABLE CHIP CALLED A CALIBRATOR ASSEMBLY. THIS IS INSTALLED ON THE OUTSIDE OF THE ECM AND IS MOUNTED BY 2 SCREWS WITH THE CONNECTOR ON THE BOTTOM. CALIBRATORS ARE IDENTIFIED BY THE PART NUMBERS MOLDED/STAMPED ON THE COVER.

GENERAL MOTORS PRODUCTS

1978-1995 GM COMPUTERS HAVE A REMOVABLE PROM CHIP INSTALLED UNDER A SMALL COVER PLATE. THE PROM (Programmable Read Only Memory) IS PLUGGED INTO A SOCKET MOUNTED TO THE CIRCUIT BOARD. PROMS WILL HAVE 24 OR 28 PINS AND ARE HELD IN A PLASTIC CARRIER KEYED TO THE SOCKET TO PREVENT IMPROPER INSTALLATION. PROMS ARE IDENTIFIED BY A SERIES OF 2 TO 4 LETTERS AND 4 NUMBERS PRINTED ON THE TOP OF THE CHIP. IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO REMOVE THE PROM FROM THE ECM TO IDENTIFY IT. GENERAL MOTORS CALLS THIS IDENTIFICATION THE BROADCAST CODE.

SOME FUEL INJECTION COMPUTERS FROM 1984-1993 CONTAIN A SECOND CHIP USED FOR FUEL CONTROL IN THE EVENT OF ECM/PROM MALFUNCTION. THIS 16 PIN CHIP IS CALLED A CALPAC (CALibration PACKage) AND IS HELD IN A PLASTIC CARRIER KEYED TO THE SOCKET TO PREVENT IMPROPER INSTALLATION. THE CALPAC IS IDENTIFIED BY AN 8 DIGIT NUMBER PRINTED ON THE TOP OF THE CHIP.

SOME 1985-1995 COMPUTERS HAVE A LARGE BLUE PLASTIC CIRCUIT ASSEMBLY HELD IN PLACE BY 2 LEVER ACTION CLIPS. THIS MEMCAL (MEMory CALibration) CONTAINS A COMBINATION OF PROM AND CALPAC IN ONE REMOVABLE ASSEMBLY. MEMCAL'S ARE IDENTIFIED BY 3 OR 4 LETTERS AND 4 NUMBERS SHOWN THROUGH A HOLE IN THE TOP OF THE ASSEMBLY. GENERAL MOTORS CALLS THIS IDENTIFICATION THE BROADCAST CODE.

SOME 1990-1995 COMPUTERS AND ALL 1996-2002 OBDII COMPUTERS DO NOT HAVE A REMOVABLE PROM OR MEMCAL. THESE UNITS HAVE A PROGRAMMABLE MEMORY CHIP SOLDERED TO THE CIRCUIT BOARD AND MUST BE PROGRAMMED ELECTRONICALLY BY THE USE OF A DIAGNOSTIC TOOL CONTAINING THE APPROPRIATE PROGRAM. THE VIN CODE OF THE VEHICLE AND OTHER INFORMATION IS REQUIRED BEFORE A UNIT CAN BE PROGRAMMED. CONTACT THE FACTORY FOR THE AVAILABILITY OF PROGRAMS FOR THESE UNITS.

This GENERAL MOTORS Electronic Control Module has a non-removable program chip called a FLASH PROM. This ECM cannot be operated until the correct programming is installed using a scan tool with the software that is appropriate for the VIN of the vehicle. Some ECMS have an Electronic Spark Control module installed under a small removable cover. This ESC module must be transferred from the old unit prior to installing or programming the replacement unit.

The programming of this unit must be performed by qualified personnel ONLY! Any error that occurs during the programming procedure will result in complete destruction of the ECM. Damage of this type is NOT covered under warranty and all units returned will be inspected for this type of damage. Units that have been damaged during programming will be VOID of any warranty claims and will be returned or discarded WITHOUT ANY CREDIT to be issued.

Units returned for warranty will be checked for correct programming installation. All units with incorrect vehicle programming, after-market programming, or no programming installed will be VOID of any warranty claims and will be returned or discarded WITHOUT ANY CREDIT to be issued.

TESTING DISCLAIMER STATEMENT

Any unit sent for evaluation will be subject to a non-refundable testing fee. This price of the test fee should be settled between the installer and the jobber before the unit is sent in for testing.

All units sent in for testing or rebuilding will be connected to a vehicle simulation system that produces and monitors voltages and signals identical to an operating vehicle of the same type as the unit was designed to fit. The values of these voltages and signals have been derived from commercially available data supplemented by actual live data taken from operating vehicles collected and analyzed over years of sampling.

The circuits used in the simulation systems are designed to not cause damage to a normally operating unit. All circuits must be tested to determine the proper function of a unit or the extent of damage sustained by a unit.

There is always the potential risk of damaging a unit by applying the correct voltage or signal to a circuit that is already malfunctioning. This could possibly result in further damage to a unit that may make it non-repairable. There is always the potential risk of further damaging a unit during the repair process by replacing components in a circuit that has damage in inaccessible areas such as microprocessors and multi-layer boards.

Units sent for testing and repair that have severe or widespread physical damage are evaluated on a case by case basis for the feasibility of testing or repair.

Once the repair process has begun, it may be impossible to return a unit to its original malfunctioning state. A damaged unit that previously had some circuits still working may be inoperable if all the repairs necessary are not possible.

The ECM repair center will operate all units with every safeguard possible to protect the integrity of the unit tested but cannot be held liable for damage sustained during the testing or repairing process.

Due to the complicated nature of computerized control systems, some ECM failure symptoms experienced on the vehicle may be impossible to re-create in our laboratory. Every effort is made to reproduce as many operating conditions as a reasonable time will allow, but there may be instances where an alleged failure cannot be detected.

ECM RE-TESTING

If a previously tested ECM is returned for re-testing the following conditions apply:

- (1) If a fault is discovered, the re-testing fee will be waived and the difference of the remaining repair charge will apply if the unit is repairable.
- (2) If the ECM is found to be fully functional after additional testing, a re-testing charge will be assessed.
- (3) If a known extremely intermittent and/or unusual operating condition exists that is undisclosed to the ECM repair center on an initial test, a re-testing charge will be assessed for performing a long-term testing routine on any subsequent re-testing of the unit.

After the unit repairs have been completed, ensure that the vehicle itself has been repaired before re-installing the repaired unit. Many failures of electronic circuits result from external causes, which, if not corrected, may cause the circuits of a repaired unit to fail. The ECM repair center cannot be held liable for further damage to the repaired unit or vehicle resulting from a failure to make appropriate vehicle repairs.

Failure to repair the original cause of ECM damage that results in repeated damage of the same circuits will be VOID of any warranty.

Submitting your unit to the ECM repair center for evaluation constitutes agreement of the conditions as stated above.
